by WALTER M. BARRETT

Nineteen short days remain before the opening of the trout fishing season in this district. We have come to accept the fact that the first day of May opens the year's business life in Truckee, acting as a stimulant to arouse us from a more or less listless winter. We wonder however, if we are not prone to anticipate that it will continue forever to be the start of six stirring months of feverish activities here without sufficient thought for the future. We have now one of the best fishing territories in the west and have more to offer than probably any other community which caters to the sportsman and vacationist, but as the demand for recreational opportunities increase, so must our advantages for providing these opportunities grow. We must see to it that visitors to our vacation wonderland leave pleased with a desire to return, not this year alone but the next year and the year after and for years to come. This can be accomplished only if we make the effort and set our minds to the fact that it will require unified work. The organization of the Sierra Fish Planting Club is a start in the right direction but without the wholehearted support, both financially and morally, of everyone, even this step will not bring the results which we must attain. It should become the personal problem for each individual to do his share and more. We can then keep this region far in advance of others which are making every effort to attract vacationists to their land of pleasure. Above all let us profit by past sad experiences and not permit the passing of May 1 without it causing a stir in the hearts of lovers of enjoyable outdoor sports.

It may be just an idle hope, but it is not hard to visualize an attractive soft-ball diamond and play park in the vacant lots back of Commercial Row just off Bridge street. The project would require little work and would provide an amusement and recreational center which would satisfy a long felt need in the community. Other towns are finding these inexpensive diamonds a real value.

For a town of its size Truckee has a fine theater, showing some of the best programs that can be found anywhere. If bouquets were in order we would not hesitate to hand one to Manager Verne Shattuck and his Donner Theater.

Despite the seasonal showers and crisp morning weather, spring is definitely here. Grass is turning to its usual bright green shade and the flowers in local yards are budding in profusion. Other signs, not omitting the annual epidemic of spring fever cannot be denied.

Not to be outdone by the boys who for three weekends in a row turned out 15 to 20 strong to assist in the worthy cleanup program, between 25 and 30 Truckee businessmen, representing virtually every business in town responded last weekend and turned in a stellar performance and accounted for the removal of two old unsightly structures while the boys were credited with the removal of between 30 and 40 big truckloads of old cans, bottles and other debris from vacant lots. This kind of cooperation deserves the thanks of everyone and again evidences the value of working together for a common good.

FIRE DOES DAMAGE AT LOCAL OIL PLANT

Two Weekends Of Snow Sports On Summit Planned

Silver Belt Race Promises To Bring Out Best Ski Experts

NOVICE EVENT PLANNED

Plans Progressing To Offer Unique Program At Summit

The San Francisco Junior Chamber of Commerce, sponsoring the first annual San Francisco Spring Snow Carnival at the Sugar Bowl April 20 and 21, has received definite word of stand-out entries in the Silver Belt Riesen Slalom race, numbering six famous ski stars.

In a wire to John Wiley of the Sugar Bowl club from Dick Durance, secretary of the Sun Valley Ski club the junior chamber learned of the entry of Pfiedl Pfeiffer, Sig Engl, Richard Werle, Hal Hillman and Fred Iselin as well as Durance.

With this field entered, the success of the first annual Silver Belt race and the snow carnival is assured, the chamber sports committee reports.

Other entries include Hannes Schroll, Bill Klein, Wayne Paulson, Earl Edmunds, Bob Blatt and Boots Blatt, making an unequalled field of participants.

Competition in the Riesen slalom, reputedly the most difficult and spectacular race in skiing, should develop the finest snow sports feature of the year in view of the splendid field entered.

On Saturday and Sunday, April 13 and 14, guest ski races will be sponsored by Johnny Ellis on Donner Summit in conjunction with the Donner Winter Resort.

A unique feature will be that A and B class skiers will be ineligible for the controlled downhill race to start at 2:30 Saturday above the Ellis tow and end at the base of the hill. A small entrance fee will be charged and will include the use of the tow for contestants. Entries may be made at either place. Awards will be made at the Donner resort that evening.

The slalom race will be at 11 a. m. Sunday and will attract amateurs who are trying to perfect themselves. Awards for these events will be made in the shelter house on the ski hill.

Club Is Urged To Delay Plan To Fish Pond

Fish Expert Urges Truckee Sportsmen To Take More Time

COMMITTEE TO DECIDE

Plans May Be Altered This Year To Eliminate Fish Enemies

The question of whether the Sierra Fish Planting Club will proceed with tentative plans to erect a rearing pond near Donner Lake this year or will devote its efforts to the eradication of river pests which annually destroy hundreds of trout, rests in the hands of a committee named last week by President E. L. Loynd to work out details.

The advisability of foregoing the pond idea for this year was advanced at a meeting last night when J. C. Lewis, fish expert in charge of the state hatcheries at Lake Tahoe, urged the sportsmen to spend this year in completing the organization plans, support the San Francisco Flycasting Club's rearing program and devote their efforts to what he termed more gainful pursuits by destroying the snakes, clams, crawfish and other enemies of the fish which frequent local streams.

This sort of program, Lewis said, would bear far more fruitful results than the contemplated plan of erecting and maintaining a rearing pond from which, he added, results may prove far from satisfactory.

Regardless of the course taken by the club, however, Lewis declared he would do everything in his power to assist in the program, pointing out that he was as interested in the development of trout fishing in this district as any member of the club. He made it clear he spoke as an interested individual rather than as an official of the fish and game commission.

A pond directly on the Truckee river, he warned, would not be accepted by the commission because of the almost certain loss of fish which would result.

Last year, Lewis said, 380,000 trout were planted in the Truckee river direct from the hatcheries. These trout were not released until after the danger of clam infection was gone and the fish averaged from two to three inches in length when planted. The same program will be followed this year, he declared, as near as possible.

Speaking before 50 sportsmen and businessmen, who met following the weekly dinner meeting of the Lions club at the California Cafe, Lewis indicated that while he frowned on the idea of a rearing pond for this season, he would gladly recommend any reasonable allotment of fish for such a project. The comparatively small number required, he said, would not make a dent in the nearly 3,000,000 trout now on hand in the two Tahoe hatcheries.

He stressed the fact that the number of fish planted by the state, even though the loss in proportion might far exceed tank raised fish, which is doubtful, he added, would result in a far bigger crop than could be expected from a rearing pond.

While he declined to answer directly, the speaker did not deny that the commission would look with favor upon a program of eliminating fish enemies and may be inclined to increase the plant in local streams.

The committee with whom the decision rests is composed of Lyle Smith, chairman, Dave Cabona, Gino Giovannoni, Frank Kinne, Verne Pearson and Carl Weeks.

Regardless of this decision, the club voiced its approval of supporting the Flycasting club's rearing program above other projects contemplated.

EDITORIALS

CHARLIE CHAPLIN, DICTATOR

Unfortunately it's just a press-agent's pipe-dream, that Hollywood story that Charlie Chaplin's forthcoming movie travesty on dictators may be pre-viewed in Berlin by a one man audience—Adolf Hitler. But the gag is more thought-provoking than funny. The idea is that if the Nazi-man possessed anything remotely resembling a sense of humor, he'd take one look at the picture, then call off the war and retire to his mountain top, giggling.

It won't happen, of course. The mimicry of Chaplin, whose "Hitler" moustache was known the world over long before Hitler abandoned house painting, probably would not entertain the sullen-faced Fuehrer, nor would Jack Oakie's portrayal of Mussolini, or Billy Gilbert's Goering (with a new uniform for every scene) send the supreme dictator into gales of laughter. One thing, though, is certain—the German people, who if not amused, at least would be enlightened to see their ruler as the rest of the world sees him, will never be allowed the chance. American movie audiences, rollicking with mirth, will do well to reflect on that, and count as not the least of their blessings that their own leaders, elected by the people, may—with utter freedom and no fear of reprisal—be praised, condemned, eulogized—or even laughed at.

CHILDREN'S HOUR

Hearings in Congress show that Joseph Rauh, Assistant General Counsel of the Legal Division, Wage and Hour section, Department of Labor, is in charge of interpretations of the law which affects every industry in the United States. He is 29 years of age, was graduated in 1935, was a clerk to Justice Cardozo for 18 months and to Justice Frankfurter for one month, has never tried a lawsuit, and receives a salary of $6,500 a year.

BOUNCING COINS

Take two coins that look exactly alike. One is genuine, the other is counterfeit. How can you tell them apart? The secret service men tell us we should throw them on a table. The coin that doesn't bounce is counterfeit. The coin that bounces is the real thing.

Life tests men in the same way—by their bounce! The men who do not possess real worth, quit. The men of value bounce. Lincoln was defeated many times, yet always bounced back and finally bounced into the White House. Edison failed many times in his effort to invent the incandescent lamp, yet he always bounced back and tried again—to win in the end. In the Hall of Accomplishment, you'll find inscribed the names of the men who bounced.

The counterfeit coin looks like the genuine, but it isn't. It won't bounce. A man may talk and look like a winner, but the way he actually lives is the test that counts. Meeting the hard knocks, defeats and set backs of life with bounce is the supreme test of character and worth. Be a man with bounce.

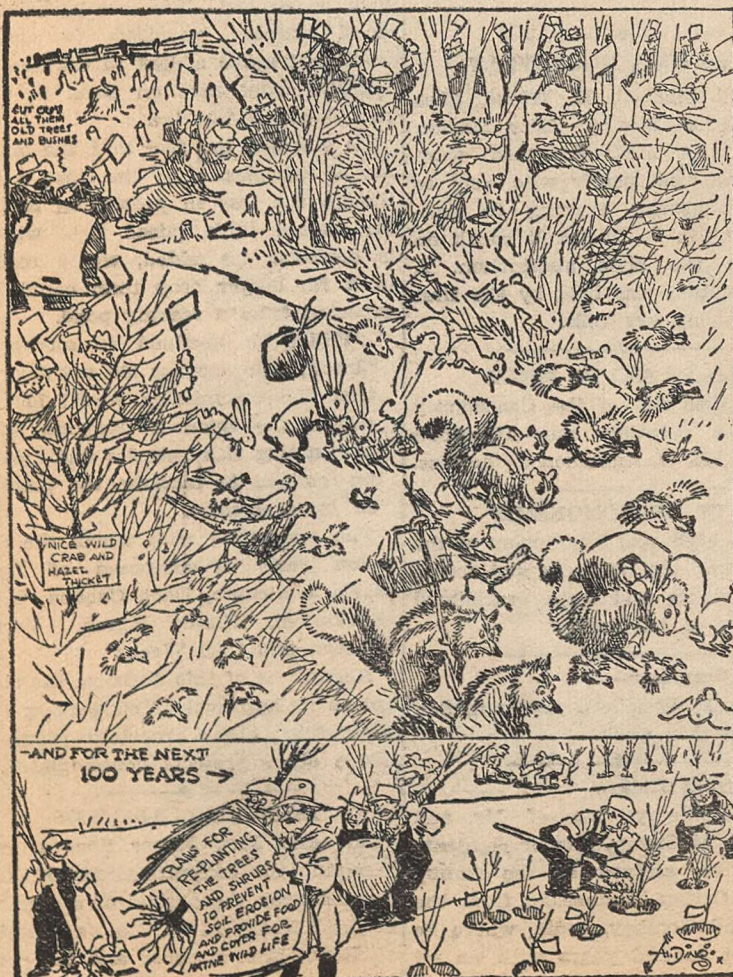

Presidential aspirants, desperately seeking to fatten their campaign funds, will appreciate the new clause written into the Hatch (No Politics) bill the other day. It forbids national committees of political parties to spend more than $3,000,000 in any one campaign. All they have to worry about now is getting the $3,000,000.

The New Deal trade agreement with Great Britain was advertised as opening an immense market for American farm products. After making the agreement the British government shut off purchases of American cotton, wheat, apples, raisins, prunes, pears, canned vegetables and fruits, pork, lard and tobacco.

In 1916 there were 71,033 patent applications in the United States. The war caused the number to drop to 59,615 in 1918. When peace came in 1919, it rose to 80,450.

THE MARCH OF PROGRESS

TIMBER

by J. F. McLAUGHLIN

Jim Farley's unqualified declaration that his name would be before the Democratic national convention as a presidential candidate brought a wide variety of interpretations from California editors.

Speculation dangled from belief he was merely stressing opposition against a third Roosevelt term to intimations that it was part of a well-planned campaign to insure selection of a New Dealer as the party choice. Citing Farley's disapproval of a third term, the Stockton Record believes his announcement "has ruffled the political waters."

"He is out for the presidential nomination 'without reservation', he declares," explains the Record, "which may mean that he would oppose the president if the latter decided to run. Or it may indicate that Farley has inside information that his old friend, 'the chief,' does not desire to have another term. Washington politicians, although impressed by Farley's apparently flat-footed declaration, are seeking its true portent. Nothing these days is ever just what it seems."

"Any real intention the postmaster general has of seeking the presidential nomination," notes the Richmond Independent, "cannot be discounted by any other candidate. For Farley wields a political power of great moment. The postoffice organization which he heads is the most far-reaching and potent of any group connected with Democratic politics."

"The unconditional announcement by Jim Farley that he is a candidate for president," observes the Marysville Appeal-Democrat, "has been accepted in many quarters as an indication Mr. Roosevelt will not run. However, they are just as strong indications on the other side, so the president's third term intentions are as much a mystery as ever.

The announcement, according to the Orange Daily News, "shows that the Democratic candidates are becoming restive under the restraint placed upon them by the presidential cynicism in withholding any indication of the Roosevelt plans. . . . The Roosevelt silence has, of course, placed other candidates in an unpleasant position. So long as they defer to the president, they admit that they are second string candidates and there is anger that they will be accepted at their own valuation."

The candidacy of Mr. Farley," said the Santa Monica Evening Outlook, "is conclusive evidence that he will not join the Ickes-Jackson-Corcoran group in promoting a third term. . . . The announcement of his candidacy by Mr. Farley may not prove that President Roosevelt has decided to decline a third term, but is evidence that the leaders of the party are not willing to have Mr. Roosevelt dictate the nomination of his successor."

Farley as a candidate and also party chairman injects a new problem into national politics, declares the Santa Barbara News-Press, pointing out "the party chairman is supposed to be by tradition neutral to all aspirants for the nomination. What course Farley will follow remains to be seen, but friends who take his candidacy seriously are urging him to resign the party post. . . . Most party charmen have held governmental posts, but none have been announced contenders for the presidential nomination themselves. It is in this that Farley is setting a new precedent if he continues as national chairman and also as a candidate."

Reports of Roosevelt-Farley disagreement on the third term issue were viewed with suspicion by the Hanford Daily Sentinel, adding: "There has never been a rift between the two, despite reports to the contrary. We suspect that if Roosevelt should offer for a third term, Farley will be with him as strong as ever. . . . Incidentally, Farley is going to gather a lot of delegates in his rounds between now and the convention. Unless our suspicion should go awry, these delegates are not too far away from the Roosevelt column, if the president should be drafted for another four years by the convention.

POLITICAL PARADE

By CLEM WHITAKER

California is rapidly getting the reputation of being the hardest nut to crack, politically, in all America.

Certain Eastern political experts, in their chagrin and bewilderment, are inclined to attribute this to the fact that the California nut is nuttier than any other—and as balmy as the climate.

But the home-guard politicians just scratch their bald pates and say, kind of belligerently: "We've got so many varieties!"

Truth of the matter is that California's post-depression polyglot population, which simply swept in out of the night with an almanac and no compass, has badly upset the state's political equilibrium.

And as California goes, nobody knows!

The current presidential primary fracas is a case in point.

There's only one G. O. P. elephant in the parade, to be sure, but the Democratic divisions include Ellis E. Patterson's Galloping Leftists, Willis Allen's Ham and Eggers, Governor Olson's Rough Riders and Jack Garner's Middle-of-the-Roaders. There's a gulf there as broad as the Gulf of Mexico and apparently no one to bridge it.

The Republican slate of delegates nominally pledged to Senator Jerrold L. Seawell of Roseville, is actually unstructured and uncontested—the G.O.P.'ers having decided that harmony was the better part of valor. But there, all harmony ends.

Lieutenant Governor Patterson's horse, probably the most erratic in the Democratic field, has been entered by the extreme leftists, and has the backing of Labor's Non-Partisan League and other left-wing organizations. If you pick Mr. Patterson's skittish nag, bet your money to show; not to win. In the same general category is Willis Allen's steed, although most prophets, at the moment think that Ham and Eggers will nose out the Patterson entry for third place.

Fighting it out for first place, as the smart boys figure it, will be Jack Garner's Texas chargers and Governor Olson's Rough Riders. The slate pledged to Vice President Garner is composed of Democratic leaders who are definitely opposed to a third term for Mr. Roosevelt. The Olson slate, on the other hand, is a Roosevelt ticket, but is handicapped by several desertions and the fact that Governor Olson is facing the threat of a recall.

It's a nutty race—and almost anything can happen.

ASSOCIATED REPRESENTATIVES TO OUTLINE PLANS AT MEET FOR BUSIEST TRAVEL SEASON

In anticipation of one of the greatest seasons of motor travel on the Pacific Coast in many years, hundreds of sales agents, distributors and dealers of Tide Water Associated Oil company will gather at Sacramento, Monday, April 15, to attend the annual spring merchandising show of the company.

M. C. Immer, local Associated representative, will head the delegation from Truckee attending the Sacramento session, which will be held under the direction of T. M. Dunn, district sales manager.

The day and evening meetings will be devoted to consideration of the merchandizing and advertising programs which will be outlined by a group of nine officials from company headquarters under the leadership of W. A. Reanier, recently appointed domestic sales manager of the Associated Division.

There's considerable mystery in political circles, our spy advises, over the identity of the "angel" fiancing Lieutenant Governor Ellis Patterson's campaign for U. S. Senator. Politically Speaking

United Press Staff Correspondent

SACRAMENTO, April 11—(U.P.)—Economy is always a good slogan in a political year. But the usual catchwords have been replaced this year by some below-the-surface probing by friends and opponents of the administration.

The most popular demand to save money is by revision of the state's cumbersome government, grown up over the years like a mushroom. New bureaus have been added, civil service rules have prevented retrenchment in many divisions, and a rapidly expanding population has forced new services to be added.

With the state going into the red something like $2,500,000 per month, it is inevitable that something must be done. Two similar ways of doing it have been suggested by State Treasurer Charles G. Johnson, veteran state official and former banker, and Frank W. Clark, director of public works.

Clark and Johnson were chief witnesses before the assembly committee on governmental efficiency and economy. Clark espoused the various reorganization proposals suggested to the legislature by Gov. Culbert Olson but flatly rejected. He said these various changes would save the state about $25,000,000 per year.

Not only that, commented Clark, but the governor's recommendations were based on a study made by a 25-man committee named by former Gov. Frank F. Merriam, a Republican.

Johnson, a Republican, said his suggested changes in government would save about $12,000,000 or $15,000,000 per year. "Our government has everything big business has, except real businessmen in control of affairs," he said.

Establishment of a new revenue department to assume all tax collecting functions, under control of some statet officer such as the treasurer, would be a tremendous single achievement, Johnson said. There are many tax collecting agencies now functioning and the saving from non-duplication would save the "irritation caused by several different tax collecting agencies contacting the public."

Another reform would be established of an independent auditing agency, separate from the state administration and headed by an official elected by the people. At present departmental books are audited by the department of finance, an administrative department directed by an appointee of the governor.

Johnson also criticized operation of the numerous special fund agencies in the state government, some of which have created huge reserve funds. The treasurer contended these agencies—principally licensing and regulatory units of the state government—should collect now more money than is need for their particular purposes. He advocated elimination of these agencies as independent boards and commissions and setting up their functions in existing constitutional departments.

A diverging opinion, however, was expressed by another constitutional officer, State Controller Harry B. Riley, who doubted that consolidation of revenue collecting agencies of the state would promote either efficiency or economy.

Riley's position was that the form of government matters little, so long as it remains democratic, but the manner in which it is administered that is important. He argued that the levying and collection of taxes should be kept separate to provide a cross check between the two agencies. Also he said that there is danger that in a co-ordinated set-up collection activities on behalf of one tax might be subordinated to another, with consequent loss of revenue.

However, he controller agreed with Johnson that the post-auditing should be lodged in a no-administrative department, suggesting that this duty be delegated to his office.

Riley proposed also a stnding committee be set up both to act as an additional checking agency on auditing activities of the controller under

Springtide of Spiritual Joy

IN AN exquisite passage in the Song of Solomon, the "beloved" sings (2:10-12): "Rise up, my love, my fair one, and come away. For lo, the winter is past, the rain is over and gone; the flowers appear on the earth; the time of the singing of birds is come." However variously this passage may have been interpreted, we may perhaps be permitted to see in it, for us, a hint of the call of divine Love to love in the human heart to awake from the dream of life in matter, to see the ever-appearing freshness and beauty of true being. Among the seasons, each of them bringing its wealth of beauty and variety, spring is thought of by many, especially by those who are acquainted with the rigors of winter, as the season eloquently illustrative of the awakening of new hopes, aspiration, courage, and inspiration.

Mary Baker Eddy, who was a lover of nature in its various forms, in a beautiful article, "Voices of Spring," in "Miscellaneous Writings" has written (p. 329), "Spring is my sweetheart," using a metaphor which points to the ever-awakening of love, of gentleness, tenderness, sympathy; and she adds that its "voices are sad or glad, even as the heart may be; restoring in memory the sweet rhythm of unforgotten harmonies, or touching tenderly its tearful tones." Thus does love mingle with love in all the sympathetic interests of the human experience. How the ever-recurring expression of love, in families and among friends, sweetens human lives, brightens the heart's harmonious meditations! Are they not easily likened to the return of springtime, after the long chill of winter? And even in those climes where summer abides through most of the year, the loveliness of the verdure only more continuously reminds one that "flowers appear on the earth; and the time of the singing of birds is come."

So, in our daily experiences, even though at times there may seem to be this proposed set-up, and to be an interim budget committee to report to the legislature on departmental requests for funds.

The controller's office already has the responsibility of passing on all claims presented to the state before they are paid. Riley noted that filing of travelling expense vouchers has fallen off considerably since he rejected a number of claims as not properly state business.

Sen. Johnson Seeks

Flood Control Funds

WASHINGTON, April 11—Senator Hiram W. Johnson, R., Calif., has submitted an amendment to Rivers and Harbors bill (HR 8668) so that $1,844,000 could be used for completion of the Sacramento River flood control works authorized by Congress.

the chilling clouds of depression, the voice of Love is ever calling to spiritual sense, "Rise up, my love, my fair one, and come away;" and in obeying the call we shall "come away" from the dream of life and intelligence in matter, away from the beliefs of mortal discords, and see, through enlightened spiritual vision that "flowers appear on the earth," that in every experience we may rejoice in the beauty and the harmony of the real and eternal. There is no dearth of beauty, freshness, and goodness in the reality of spiritual being, no lack or loss, no chilling discords, no absence of Love and its loveliness.

If, however, in the dream of material experience, there seems to be some reason for sadness, then indeed "the time of the singing of birds" is come; then should we lift our hearts in songs of gratitude for the ever-present harmony of real being, of life in infinite divine Love.

How swiftly "the long winter of our discontent" melts into the springtime of joy and gladness, when we obediently respond to the call of Love, "Rise up, my love, my fair one," for love, reflecting Love, God, is indeed fair and beautiful, peace-bringing and satisfying! Now, what is one to do about the difficulties, the wrongs, the sorrows, which seem ever to haunt the footsteps of the human family? In the article mentioned above, Mrs. Eddy refers to these things and to the lessons in spiritual overcoming to be gleaned from them, and she asks (Miscellaneous Writings, p. 331): "When downtrodden like the grass, did it make them humble, loving, obedient, full of good odor, and cause them to wait patiently on God for man's rich heritage,—dominion over all the earth? Thus abiding in Truth," she assures us, "the warmth and sunlight of prayer and praise and understanding will ripen the fruits of Spirit, and goodness will have its springtide of freedom and greatness." . . .

HELPS KEEP

PEOPLE say modern lighting that is "easy on the eyes" makes the eyes feel better . . . And they are right . . . Good lighting brings out the beauty of the home furnishings . . . It aids personal beauty, too.

Light that is glaring brightness or that is dim and gloomy makes hard work of seeing. It causes squints and frowns and scowls and brings on many premature wrinkles and face-lines.

Good, modern lighting merely means the right kind of light, and the right amount of light where you read or sew or use your eyes. And you can have it easily, quickly, inexpensively.

Many persons have expressed interest in the name of the H and W Philanthropic Club and the meaning of the letters. The full name Helpful and Willing Philanthropic Club is shortened by the use of the H and W for the sake of convenience in correspondence but the complete title was decided upon as best expressing the club's motive and aim to be willing and helpful with a philanthropic attitude for others who need such assistance as the members can give.
